This school has been in

A. Association since October 1823. The Scriptures had not been read here until March last, as we could not procure the Douay Testament sooner, that version of the New Testament has been read since by the more forward Boys and Girls. In every other instance the regulations of the Association have been adhered to.

is often visited by the Roman Catholic Coadjutor, and only from similar motives.

N^o 14.

The Books read here are:
Voyages, Travels; Histories of Arts and Manufactures, of Animated Nature, Moral essays, Select Poems &c. 80
Copies, Dublin reading book
36 Copies, Scripture lessons
30 Copies. All the above furnished by the Kildare St.
Association, and are of the usual description they send to their schools. A few of the Scholars have copies of Goldsmith's History of England, Scott's lessons, and the usual Treatises on Arithmetic, Book-keeping, Mathematics, &c. &c. —

There are 10 copies of the Douay Testament. Old Testament not read. —

N^o 15.

There never has been any attempt made to change the Religion of any Child in this School. —

No material change has taken place in the number of Pupils who frequent this School, and like that of all the others, with the exception of one, (Fahy School) its increase or diminution is regulated, merely, by the circumstances of the parents and the seasons of the year. —

To send their Children to a School conducted on the principles of the Kildare St.

Society, Roman Catholics in this parish are decidedly averse. And we are free to declare to his Majesty's Commissioners, that our own opinions, and those of every Roman Catholic Clergyman we know, are in strict conformity with the sentiments of the People. —

We cannot approve of the Holy Scriptures being made a School-book. —

We deem it a measure fraught with danger to the Faith of the Children, to have them under the care of a Teacher, whose religious opinions differ from theirs and whose spirit is perhaps hostile to them. —

And we consider it fully as injurious to their Morals, that, while they are in the acquirement of School Knowledge, religious instruction conformable to the principles of their profession should be withheld from them. —

When such are our principles, his Majesty's Commissioners may feel surprised, that our principal school should be in connexion with the Kildare A. Association. We can assure them it was from no dereliction of those principles such connexion took place. —

The school is peculiarly circumstanced. A Roman Catholic Clergyman is the Director and constant visitant. He has the appointment of the Master and Mistress, who will, of course, always be Roman Catholics. He has the selection even of the portions of the New Testament, which the Children must read; and they are taught their catechism out of school hours. The faith of the Children thus secured, and anxious to afford them every means of improvement that conscience could permit, the parish Priest applied for and obtained the assistance of the Kildare A. Society; but without these safeguards we would never have asked or accepted the smallest aid.

We beg leave, therefore, to state it as our opinion to his Majesty's Commissioners, that the Kildare St. grant, as at present administered, can never be an effective means of educating the poor of Ireland. We would humbly submit, that the adoption of the following regulations would render their ample funds a rich source of blessings to the People.

To dispense altogether with the reading of the Scriptures in their Schools.

To allow fixed and competent salaries to Teachers, this would inspire them with zeal, as it would give them an interest in the discharge of their duty.

That Catholic teachers should alone preside over Catholic Children, and in mixed schools either the Master or an assistant should be a Catholic.

That some of the Roman Catholic Bishops and Clergy should be on the committee for managing the grant.

That local inspectors of both persuasions be appointed to visit each school.

Religion of the pupils not tampered with in either week-day or Sunday-school. Very few, if any, Roman Catholics have attended the Sunday school for some months past, on account of their being obliged to attend Catechism in the Chapel of Killane, at the same or nearly the same hour, at which the Sunday-school is taught in Edenderry. The Roman Catholics send their children to the Downshire school, only because their Religion is not interfered with.

The following Statement is under N^o 11. in The Edenderry sheet.

It is with pain we have to inform his Majesty's Commissioners, that the number of Children, who frequent those schools, bears but a small proportion to those, who cannot attend. The poverty of the parents of the great majority is such, that they are not only unable to pay the trifling stipend of the Teacher, and to procure school requisites, but even to afford their Children the cloathing, which decency would require, in order to their admittance into a public school. We can only deplore this wretched state of our parishioners and of the Country in general, being unable from the slenderness of our means to apply almost any temporal remedy. To alleviate, as much as possible, this great evil, and to afford all the light in our power to dispense to the youth of those parishes, Catechism Schools are held on the Mornings and evenings of Sundays and Holidays at our Chapels, and on the evenings of those days in the remote parts of the Country. The Catechism of the four Roman Catholic Archbishops is the class book, a book that conveys to the youthful mind a very considerable portion of Moral and Religious instruction, together with an adequate knowledge of the principles and tenets of the Catholic faith. The Priests attend at the Chapels and promote by word and example this useful work as often as their other avocations permit. In the country places the sexes are taught in separate houses by pious persons, who in general belong to the confraternity of the Christian doctrine. Upwards of 700 Children are instructed in this way, but we are convinced they would amount to, or exceed 1000, but for the poverty of the parents already stated.
